

Culinary Business Institute training programs include Digital Resources.
But what exactly are Digital Resources?

These are a vast assortment of files that supplement each training program. Elements like sample forms and templates: cash flow charts, balance sheet, presentation samples, press releases, service agreements, checklists, service pricing, and so on.

Since virtually all home-based culinary business operations use a sole proprietor or LLC business model, we do not spend time on partnerships or corporations in our main program, but those business models are fully outlined within the Digital Resources.

Personal Chef, Dinner Parties and Commercial Kitchens each have a unique collection of Digital Resources. File count is between 48 and 65 depending on program selected.

Digital Resources are very important, but we elect to separate these from the primary training, otherwise a person could get distracted and taken away from the core curriculum.